'WHERE PASSION MEETS PERFORMANCE'

Q & A

BOB:

"I'm a about a 6 or 7 handicap and want to take off two or three strokes right away. Can you help me?"

ANSWER: Short question! Long answer! Small book! Too little time, I think.

This desire is a tall order. The small end of your scoring growth (short clubs and game) is the hardest fought battle and most difficult victory. The closer you get to 'Scratch' the harder it is to erase strokes, to win little battles and come out on top in little skirmishes. Being a '6' you know this!

Now we have to get subtle and precise in our thinking as well as executing our shots with comfortable care. To do so, we will naturally concentrate on the most basic of basics. You will have to strive to make your swing work better when you put the most pressure on it. Like I said, 'A Tall Order' but doable. You will have to come and see me in person.

P.S. A "6 or 7 Handicap", indeed! There are millions of golfers who would love to realistically have your desire, your determination and 'YOUR PROBLEM'. Did you ever think of starting a golf school?

If you do, your handicap will immediately balloon to a ten and then slowly 'Leak to a 12' ... guaranteed. As a teacher, you trade 'Scoring Well' for the feeling you get from really helping another to improve meaningfully.

Being a retired airline captain, I though this doing more teaching Golf would lead to more play. The teaching fraternity gets courtesy green fees so our cost is generally zero. The 'Pathetic Flaw' or 'Achilles Heel' is that we no longer have time to play. Who said Life was Fair? I guess playing one round a month is better than one every eight weeks!

More seriously: Work on Your SHORT GAME three hours a week or more!

"Welcome Aboard!"
"Enjoy The Ride!"

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
